New York, Sept. 6.-Bradstreet's to-morrow will say:

Trade advices are, as a rule, very good. Fall demand, now in full swing at the East, West and Northwest, compares well with last year, and business continued to expand at the South. Specially marked features are the representatives of a large seasonable distribution, heavy ship-ments and improved collections from leading

All measures of trade demand point to the maintenance of general business on a scale not heretofore equaled for this time of year, while failures, though more numerous than last year, are less hurtful than one or two months ago and especially reflect only the normal friction insep-arable from conduct of business in large volume. Industrial disturbances are not cutting the figure they did earlier. Prices for the fourth successive month have advanced and are now well up to the lighest of the year. Effect of Steel Strike.

The steel strike is gradually near its end, despits efforts to keep the trouble open. In the meanwhile demand steadily grows and premiums for quick delivery of field products mount up. Much of the business usually offering has been merely postponed, and great activity awaits the reopaning of the mills.

of the body home, signing the name, A. H. DeGamo, as the undertaker in charge of the body.

The plan worked finely, so far as arousing the parents. They wanted the son's body returned to Indiana, but they did not know DeGamo, and, instead of sending the money here for that personage, made a deposit with the express company at Fort Wayne, and the officials there wired here for the local officials to act as security for the cost of forwarding the remains.

The express officials here did not know Undertaker DeGamo, as there is none here by that name, and, after a search of the undertaking establishments without finding the body of John Cunningham, began to suspect crookedness. An investigation followed, with the result that Cunningham's connection with the bunce game was discovered and the fact mearthed that he and "DeGamo" were one 2nd the same party. About the same time Cunningham discovered that his game was a failure and he suddenly disappeared.

Bad Investment Finan-

As a Tenant Instead of Owner There Would Be a Sacrifice of Dignity-Four Hundred Buildings.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

Washington, Sept. 6.—On the general sub-ject of public buildings James Knox Taylor, Supervising Architect of the Treasury, said to-day that, looked at purely from a business standpoint, the Government makes a bad investment when it erects its own buildings. This is often true in large cities and nearly always true in small cities. If the United States were an investment company instead of a Government, said Mr. Taylor, it would never think of putting money into buildings like those erected by Uncle Sam. Nevertheless, Mr. Taylor believes that the United States should continue to build its own buildings because of the dignity they lend to the Government.

"I believe in public buildings in every city and town of the country," said Mr. Taylor, "although from a business point of view they are a loss to the Government. We have a cosmopolitan people, and the people who come to us from abroad are accustomed to see Governments own their own buildings. The policy of this Government is not to be stingy in the matter of public buildings, and our large, fine buildings carry to all classes of people the idea of wealth and power."

Mr. Taylor said that in a city where the Government erects a building at a cost of $100,000 quarters could nearly always be obtained for the Government uses at from $1,200 to $2,000 a year. At only 3 per cent interest these quarters cost $3,000 a year. Interest these quarters cost $3,000 a year. The Government, therefore, loses at least $1,000 a year on the investment in addition to the amount it annually expends on repairs. There are about $00 public buildings throughout the country, and the annual cost of repairs and alterations to these buildings is $400,000, an average of $1,000 each.

Service Furnished Free. Still another consideration is that in rented buildings heat, light, janitor and elevator service are furnished free to the Government, while the Government has to supply this at its own cost in its own buildings. Nearly all small Government buildings, Mr. Taylor asserted, are un-profitable from a financial sense.

The investment in larger cities is a doubtful ore also, Mr. Taylor continued. He gave Cleveland, O., as a sample. The Government is renting all the buildings it needs in that city to-day at $48,000 a year. It is going to invest $2,500,000 in a new building. At present its heat, light, janltor and elevator service are furnished free. The interest on $2,500,000 at 3 per cent would be $35,000 a year. Mr. Taylor said that the same thing was true in nearly every city in same thing was true in nearly every city in

Mr. Taylor does not attempt to enter into a discussion of the question whether or not Congress provides buildings unnecessarily large and costly for the various places. That is a matter not suitable for him to discuss, as it is strictly within the right of Congress to approprate whatever money it sees fit for a public building, whether or not that sum is entirely in excess of the size of building that is needed. It is simply a business proposition of existing conditions that Mr. Taylor comments upon.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 6.-The first sensational session of the Missouri Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was neld this forenoon, when the name of Bishop E. R. Hendrix of Kansas City was dropped from the Board of Curators of the Central College at Fayette, Mo., an institution maintained by the church. Charges have teen made in church circles of the diversion of part of the endowment fund to puroses other than those intended by those who created the fund for the perpetual maintenance of the college. It is said that there has been friction be bers of the conference, the endowment fund was intended to be held in trust, the income was intended to be held in trust, the income therefrom to be applied to the wants of the school. It is charged that the interest from the endowment fund has been otherwise applied for a period of twenty years. The matter has been under discussion for some time, and at the conference two years ago the Board of Education was instructed to look into the affairs of the school and make a report. It was this report that started a warm discussion at the session of the conference this forenoon. The board recommended the deposing of Bishop Hendrix and Mr. Wheeler. After a sharp contest the report was adopted. As a result Doctor Creighead, another member of the Board of Curators, resigned. Board of Curators, resigned.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The Civil Service Commission invites attention to the fact that an examination for appointment to the Have to Face Charge of Killing a Man.

> REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Springfield, Ill., Sept. 6.-The little city of Edinburg is excited over a shooting affray which occurred there at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, in which two residents of the neighborhood were engaged. Colonel "Jack" Redmond, known all over the West and an old resident, shot and probably fatally injured George Leigh, residing in the east part of Edinburg, and from accounts which have been given out in regard to the shooting the affair was the result of a quarrel Redmond fired from a shotgun, and a little daughter of the deceased was the only other witness. Redmond was arrested and taken to Taylorville to the Christian County fall, From the story which reached Springfield to-day, Colonel Redmond was in Edinburg, where he resides, during Thursday, and about 5 o'clock the shooting occurred. Thursday afternoon he was working about the place and went out to one of the about the place and went out to one of the barns, of which there are two close togeth-er, and as Leigh stopped out of one of them, he was surprised to see Colonel Redmond come from the other. Leigh approached the old man. The farmer demanded to know what business brought Redmond into the barn, and the latter replied that that was all right; for he was simply getting some kindling wood. He displayed a barrel stave which he had picked up in the barn, and when Leigh continued to talk, Redmond advanced toward him and threatened to whip him. The farmer retreated into the barn and secured a pitchfork and then came out and faced Redmond. The latter gave up his attempt to whip the farmer, and after they had quarreled for a few minutes, Redmond went out to the road where his bugg; was hitched and the farmer returned toward Redmond Arms Himself. Colonel Redmond reached under the buggy Redmond Arms Hisself.

Colonel Rodmond reached under the buggy seat and secured his shotgun which was loaded with a heavy charge. He then reentered the farmyard. A little daughter of Mr. Leigh was playing in the yard and had been attracted by the loud voices during the first quarrel. She watchel Redmond come through the gate and walk toward Leigh, who was nearing the barn. When Redmond came within a few feet of Leigh he raised the gun to his shoulder. The little girl cried to her paps to jump, that the man was going to shoot.

Colonel Redmond's aim was true, and the shot tore through the left arm and slide of Mr. Leigh. The arm was torn from his body and a large hole made in his side. Redmond made a few remarks, and theotook the gun back to the buggy and drove away. The members of the family were aroused, and hurried to the relief of Mr. Leigh. He was unconscious from the shock and loss of blood, and his left arm was hanging to the body only by a few bleeding shreds of flesh. A hole in his side was large enough to contain a man's hand, and the vitals were exposed. Physicians were hurried to the scene, but they expressed little hope of saving the life of the injured man.

TO FORM AN ASSOCIATION.

Nonunion Barbers Will Test Validity of New Law.

A movement is on foot to organize a Barbers' Protective Association among the nonunion shops now existing in St. Louis. The object of this association is to test the validity of the law requiring the appointment of the Barbers' Board of Examiners. A test case will be made of that in which Adolph Scharfstein of No. 123 North Seventh street is the defendant. It is charged that he has been following his vocation without the necessary barber's permit.

The attorneys for the defendant claim that he is a competent barber, and that the only reason the Board of Examiners refused him a license was because he was working for a nonunion shop. If the Barbers' Protective Association is established it will be composed exclusively of nonunion men, and Scharfstein's case will be tested.

All the members of the Board of Examining Barbers are out of the city, but they will be present to prosecute the case against Scharfstein.

Excerpts from the law in connection with the case follow:

Chapter 78. Revised Statutes Missouri, 1899. In relation to barbers—Board of Examiners. Section 5034 provides, in effect, that it shall be unlawful for any person to follow the occupation of barbering in this State, unless he shall have first obtained a certificate of registration as provided by a subsequent section; provided, that the chapter shall not apply to any person now (i. e. at the time of its enautment, 1899) actually engaged in such occupation; and, provided, that the law shall not apply to any city, town or village containing less than 50.00 inhabitants.

Section 5035 provides, in effect, that a Board of Examiners of three shall be appointed by the Governor, whose duties it shall be to examine person desiring a challed certificate. The statute provides further (Sec. 1905), that, in appointing this Board of Examiners the Governor thall solect "one member from such persons as may be recommended by the Boss Barbers' Protective Association of Missouri, and the third "from those persons so recommended by the House states of registration of t

Colonel Redmond has traveled all over lilinois and is well known wherever he has visited. When a crew refused to stop a traft where he wanted to stop he would climb upon the cars and set the brakes so tight that the wheels would not move. Three brakemen have tried in vain to loosen them after he had tightened them, and he would have to go up and turn them back again. He has often eaten three chickens at a sitting and his capacity in other ways was equally as great. He visited Chicago some years ago at the request of a newspaper man there, and took with him him 'coon dogs. He succeeded in blocking traffic on State street for half a day, and his voice rose above all the city noises which generally reign supreme.

Redmond declares he fired in self-defense and claims that Leigh was advancing toward him with a pitchfork at the time.
